NSW SEMINAR INVITATION

TOPIC

"UWA v Gray – All bark and no bite?"

SPEAKERS: Lynne Peach & Carl Ruppin

The recent Federal Court decision in University of Western Australia v Gray has generated significant concern among research and commercial employers alike. However the question needs to be asked – how big an impact will this really have on current industry practice?

Come along to a presentation by Lynne Peach and Carl Ruppin of Minter Ellison's Intellectual Property team, for a seminar on the case and its implications, addressing issues including:

- IP rights commonly created by employees and how they are typically treated in employment contracts;
- how such rights were approached in UWA v Gray; and
- how such rights might now be dealt with, in light of UWA v Gray.

Lynne Peach is a Partner in Minter Ellison's Intellectual Property team, who advises in relation to all aspects of the creation, acquisition, commercialisation, management and protection of IP rights. Key focus areas for Lynne's practice include the pharmaceutical, biotech and fast moving consumer goods industries. She regularly acts for clients in large scale litigation to enforce IP rights including patent and trade mark litigation and in actions relating to allegations of misleading and deceptive conduct.

Carl Ruppin is a Senior Lawyer in Minter Ellison's IP team, advising on IP protection and regulatory issues for clients operating in a range of industries, including pharmaceutical, IT, aviation and consumer goods. He assists clients with a wide range of issues, including patent and copyright disputes, confidential information, and brand protection and enforcement.
